Response to Bidder Questions

Distributed on July 21st, 2022

Question	Response
1. Does the terminal evaluation concern countries where the project is finished? Who decides if we will be evaluating?	The terminal evaluation will take place in countries where the project is finished. During the terms of reference development, the executing agencies together with the selected consultant will agree in determining the sites.
2. Who decides the definition and identification of these countries?	During the terms of reference development, the executing agencies together with the selected consultant will agree in determining/defining the sites.
3. Will the proposals be similar for every country? Who sends us relevant information on the country?	Yes, the proposal will be the same for all countries. All project documentation and information will be sent to the selected consultant during the kick-off and terms of reference development.
4. We have experience with evaluations in different countries, but not with GEF. Will this impact our technical score?	An evaluation criterion is the experience in doing evaluation of GEF projects. Organizations with GEF experience will have higher score in that criterion. However, please note that having no experience with GEF evaluations does not mean that you will have less likelihood in being awarded with the project. The agency is mainly looking at the quality of the proposal.
